MEXICO CITY, April 16—Two hundred or more persons were reported today to have perished in a tremendous earthquake that virtually destroyed the city of Colima, capital of the state of the same name.

The entire region around the city was in a state of "indescribable panic" as a result of widespread damage, according to messages sent to President Manuel Avila Camacho by Gov. Pedro Torres Ortiz during the night.

At midnight, after relaying messages from the stricken area for hours, the Manzanilla railroad suddenly reported it was no longer able to contact Colima. Authorities were unable to offer any explanation.

Best available estimates indicated that probably half of Colima's 20,000 residents were left homeless by the devastating tremors.

The city was noted for its fine colonial churches, many of which were founded by Mexico's earliest Spanish settlers.

Six Hamlets Gone

Meanwhile, the Guadalajara correspondent of the newspaper Novedades reported that six hamlets near Tuxpan in the state of Jalisco "disappeared in the earthquake."

All latest available reports showed the quake, which caused casualties and damage yesterday in Mexico City, had spread over a wide area of central, western and southwestern Mexico. Colima itself is about 300 miles west of Mexico City.

Adding to the confusion at Colima, the nearby Volcano De Colima erupted during the night, re-

Non-Combatants Feel Brunt of Axis Grecian Push

JURY SELECTED TO TRY DRIVER IN FATAL CRASH

In less than half an hour a jury of eight men and four women was selected Wednesday to hear the manslaughter case of Andrew Mack Wright, Dayton.

The jury includes Alice Walters, Jackson Township; Raymond Reitnerman, Monroe Township; Charles Gusman, Circleville; Fred Prushing, Scioto Township; Mrs. Elmer Wolf, Circleville; Charles Trone Sr., Walnut Township; Lee Winks, Jackson Township; Mrs. Jessie Pitt, Muhlenberg Township; Mrs. R. G. Riddle, Darby Township; A. C. Skinner, Darby Township; L. M. Culp, Circleville, and Marvin Rhoades, Jackson Township.

Defending Wright, charged with the death of Miss Catherine Stapleton, resulting from a head-on collision with the automobile in which Miss Stapleton and her companion, Millard Campbell, both of Circleville were riding, are Frank Redfern, Adelphi and Ray Davis, Circleville. Campbell also died.

Trying the case for the state is Prosecutor George Gerhardt and his specially-appointed assistant, Joe Adkins.

Evidence presented to jurors by the state included pictures of tire marks taken by sheriff's officers at the scene of the tragedy on Route 56 just east of Circleville. State's attorneys maintained the tire marks indicated clearly the Wright car was on the wrong side of the highway when the collision occurred.

Court officials believed the trial would continue Thursday, with each side calling in several witnesses. The trial is the first criminal case heard in Common Pleas court since 1939.

Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger, Wednesday, appointed E. L. Crist to assist the state in prosecution of the John T. White case involving the alleged swindle of $3,200 from the Pickaway County Livestock Association.

"I tried to pull him but I couldn't hold him," Ward testified.

"I yanked on the reins and he kept on running. I let him have his head and he ran all the faster. I tried to confuse him by whipping him and he ran all the faster.

When I stopped whipping him he put on more speed and won by half a length."

On trial, charged with bribing jockeys to pull horses, thereby mulcting bettors out of thousands of dollars, are five alleged gamblers.

Bernard Einstoss, alias Barney Mooney, I. W. Kivel, Benny Chapman, Willie Einstoss and Sol Greenberg.

Clause Protecting Men From Overseas Service In Army Is Eliminated

COLUMBUS, April 16—The usual protective clause in enlistment papers of volunteers for the regular army against overseas service has been eliminated, it was learned today at Fort Hayes, headquarters of the army fifth corps area.

In the past, enlistment papers have contained a clause which provided that new soldiers could not be sent overseas unless they volunteered or, if under 21, had the consent of their parents to volunteer.

Fort Hayes emphasized that elimination of the overseas service clause applies only to men who enlist in the regular army for three years. It has no effect whatever on draftees.

NEW YORK, April 16—The office of Colonel Lloyd V. Maclugger, army recruiting officer for the New York area, distributed notices today to sub-recruiting stations notifying them that the usual protective clause in enlistment papers against overseas service has been eliminated.

Sentiment Reported Gaining Against Use Of U. S. Ships To Guard Supplies

WASHINGTON, April 16—With the Senate Foreign Relations Committee slated to shelve the Tobey anti-convoy resolution today, leaders of the non-intervention bloc mapped plans to close a serious leak in the British blockade which has developed at Marseilles, it was learned today.

Decisive defeat recently administered to the Italian fleet in the Ionian Sea was understood to have stiffened Britain's determination to close the blockade leak as effectively as possible, even in the face of possible threatened action by the French navy in the Mediterranean.

LONDON, April 16—Regardless of the reaction in unoccupied France, the British Navy plans to close a serious leak in the British blockade which has developed at Marseilles, it was learned today.

BERLIN, April 16—The German high command today announced a new British attack to recapture Solyum, taken by the combined German-Italian forces in their advance into Egypt, had been broken up by the defenders.

SOFIA—The Bulgarian government has severed diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia because of "unprovoked" Yugoslavian attacks on Bulgarian territory in the early stages of the Balkan conflict, it was announced today.

TOKYO—Repeated attacks by British troops on Thai (Siamese) territory along the Thailand-Malaya frontier caused the Thai government to lodge a protest with British authorities, the Domei (Japanese) news agency reported in a dispatch from Bangkok, today.

F. D. Lacks Power

A Senate leader in foreign affairs declared that Mr. Roosevelt lacks power to order convoys since this would be a violation of the Neutrality Act. Should Mr. Roosevelt decide that convoys are necessary to defeat the German submarine and air menace, this leader predicted, he will lay the problem before the country and congress and call for a decision.

Administration leaders, however, were reported to be following advice of Secretary of State Cordell Hull to avoid a bitter fight over use of American warships to convoy lease-lend war materials to Europe, on the ground that it would give the world an impression of disunity.

The administration plan, it appeared, was to hold the resolution in the committee on the ground that there is no likelihood of President Roosevelt ordering convoys without first asking authority of congress.

SOFT COAL RIFT GOES ON; SOUTH HITS DISCUSSION

By International News Service

Settlement of the 16-day-old soft coal work stoppage, which has left more than 400,000 workers idle, seemed more remote than ever today as southern bituminous operators, who bolted a joint Appalachian conference being held in New York, flatly rejected an appeal by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to rejoin the conference.

Hopes for partial settlement of the dispute in the $1,000,000,000-a-year industry, backbone of National Defense, which were voiced yesterday by Dr. John R. Steelman, federal conciliator, failed to materialize and CIO leaders and coal operators prepared to go into session once again this afternoon.

While alternatives were discussed, such as transporting war materials to Greenland or South America, senate leaders generally dismissed these proposals as failing to solve the critical problem.

Sen. Tobey (R) N. H., planned to appear at the Foreign Relations Committee to urge action. He was promised the support of

ONE OF BENNY'S FRIENDS LOSES, OTHER ELECTED

WAUKEEGAN, Ill., April 16—Mancel Talcott, Jack Benny's friend and boyhood chum, is no longer mayor of Waukegan, the radio and film star's home town.

Talcott was defeated for the office yesterday by Democrat Frank Wallin, former city clerk.

But Benny was not a loser in any case—Wallin made his first bid for fame on the stage of the Barrison Theatre in Waukegan with the comedian in 1907. At that time, Benny was taking the violin seriously, while Wallin was a boy seriously.

Though Waukegan is predominantly Republican, Wallin, a Democrat, beat Republican Talcott by an estimated 3,000 votes.

Married and the father of three children, the new mayor said he hopes "to make Waukegan famous as the greatest small city in the country, in addition to being known as Jack Benny's home."

APPROVAL FOR GUARD IN OHIO DRAWS NEARER

COLUMBUS, April 16—The House military affairs committee today unanimously recommended passage of a bill to create a state guard whose duties would be virtually identical with those of the National Guard which it replaces and which now is in federal service.

Speaker William McCulloch said the House probably would vote on the guard measure on Friday. Usually the legislature adjourns for the week end after the Thursday session but because of the long Easter vacation, the speaker indicated sessions would be held Friday this week.

The guard bill already has passed the senate, but was redrafted by a house sub-committee.
Organized labor objected to giving the new guard authority to act in labor disputes, but the measure as reported out by the military affairs committee would empower the governor to use the guard in such instances if he deemed it necessary.

ANTI-FASCIST ITALIAN EDITOR SHOT TO DEATH

John F. Arena, 50, Believed Slain As Result Of His Editorials

ASSASSIN FLEES IN CAR

Attacks Against Persons Opposing U.S. Blamed By Policemen

CHICAGO, April 16—The Federal Bureau of Investigation was believed ready today to join in the hunt for the slayers of John F. Arena, 43-year-old anti-Fascist editor of the Chicago Italian language newspaper La Tribuna, who was shot to death on a crowded North Side street last night.

It was reported that Arena, an outspoken foe of Fascism who traced his ancestry to Italian nobility, recently had been cooperating with the F. B. I. in an investigation of local un-American activities. In editorials in La Tribune in recent months, he had been carrying on a vigorous campaign against supposed Italian "fifth columnists."

Chicago police, early in their investigation, stated Arena may have been killed "because of his publishing activities." They learned the editor had received many threats against his life for his anti-Fascist and anti-fifth column writings. Most of the threats were made by anonymous telephone callers, detectives said.

Arena became an American citizen last year and at that time stated he was renouncing his Italian title, under which he was known as the Marchese D'Arena.

The shooting occurred shortly after 11 o'clock last night a few moments after Arena had emerged from a motion picture theatre with Miss Eleanor Herrmeyer, 17. According to Miss Herrmeyer, she and Arena had just seated themselves in the editor's car when a man ran up to them and shouted: "Look out, you've got a flat."

Shots Miss Others

Arena and Miss Herrmeyer stepped from the machine, and as Arena walked behind the car to examine his tires, the stranger opened fire with a revolver. The editor fell, mortally wounded, as the killer fled in an automobile driven by a second man. Several persons in the vicinity reported they had narrowly escaped being shot.

Arena's wife, Dorothy, 32, the mother of a 7-year-old son, became hysterical when police informed her of the tragedy. She told officers her husband had received many threats against his life recently from unidentified telephone callers. The last threat was received only a few hours before Arena was killed, she said.

Mrs. Arena, police stated, charged that "everybody" was against her husband because of his known anti-Fascist beliefs, which he stressed in editorials in La Tribune. Detectives said the widow named a number of prominent Chicagoans of Italian birth or ancestry as "enemies" of her husband. These persons will be questioned, police said.

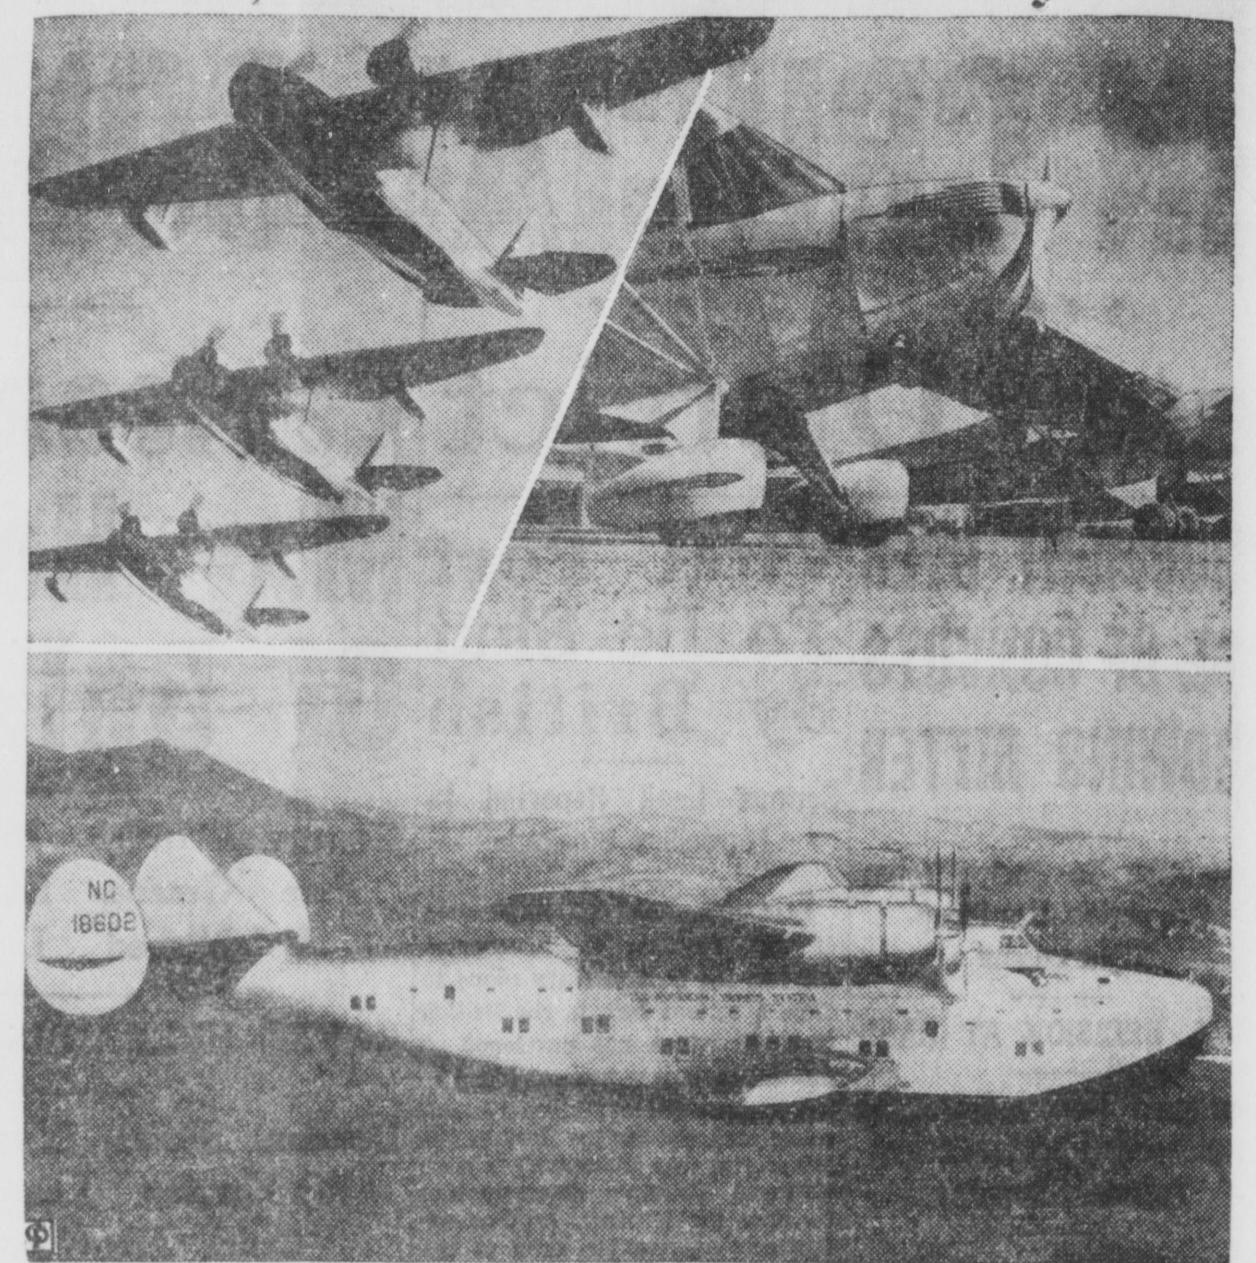

Authorities also stated they were investigating a report that Arena had received a "warning" from the Italian consul's office in New York to desist from publishing anti-Fascist editorials.

In a signed editorial carried in the paper February 21, 1941, Arena wrote:

DEFENSE OF THE AMERICAS

Civil Aeronautics To Create 100,000 Pilot Reserves By June

By Don Glassman
Written Exclusively for The Daily Herald

NEW YORK, April 16—When June, 1941, rolls around the United States civilian pilot reserve will add up to more than 100,000 young men and women who have completed at least a primary course in practical flying.

Two years ago, in 1939, the civilian pilot reserve numbered only 21,000.

Such straws in the wind point to the growing importance of civilian aviation in the realm of hemisphere defense. The army of civilian pilots can be drafted for advanced military training and taught the tricks of handling interceptors, bombers and pursuit planes without delay.

Instructed in 907 pilot-training centers under the supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, many student flyers can pass the rigid requirements of the army and navy flying services. A survey on March 1, 1941, showed that 4,813 trainees had been accepted for United States military aviation. More than 55 percent of those who completed the secondary training have been accepted for military service and another 2,000 graduates of the primary course have been accepted without taking the secondary.

High Percentage Made Good

The effectiveness of civilian pilot training is also indicated by the army air corps' discovery that understanding between these two peoples. This "fifth column" artificially spreads rumors and accusations against anyone who refuses to submit to their dictates."

Headed Big Paper

Until three years ago, Arena was editor of Chicago's largest Italian language newspaper, L'Italia. He left the publication following a dispute over policies and established La Tribune. Since then, the two publications have carried on an editorial feud. Arena started a libel action against L'Italia in 1939. The suit is pending.

Miss Herrmeyer told authorities she had met Arena several months ago and that he was sponsoring her in a singing career.

39 percent of cadets having no previous flight training are "washouts" in the primary stages, whereas only 16 percent of those who have received civilian pilot instruction fail to pass the army's preliminaries.

Modifying its policy of giving pilot instruction only to citizens, the United States is extending an invitation to 35 university students from Latin American republics. Under a $20,000 "good neighbor" grant from the state department, these eligibles will receive primary training to prepare them for military aviation.

The government extends the privilege of secondary training to students who show special aptitude; secondary courses are equivalent to the high standards in the army and navy elementary courses.

Those who complete secondary training with good ratings may receive special instruction this spring in the art of science of cross-country navigation, night flying, radio communication, etc., all prerequisites for hemisphere flying.

Small land planes, amphibians and seaplanes now lie within the income range of many Americans who want cheap, fast and convenient transportation.

Fishermen and hunters, salesmen, executives, tourists, country gentlemen and suburban commuters are among those who can afford to spend about $2,500 for a light plane equipped with the necessities for safe and comfortable flying.

Since a good many light plane owners have flown cross-country, we may anticipate "good-will" flights to Pan-American republics, and eventually the creation of a "civilian Pan-American air route" extending from the Rio Grande to the tip of South America and roughly paralleling the Pan-American highway.

The groundwork for such an undertaking has advanced farther than most people realize; the chief obstacle at present is the shortage of airports and marking facilities.

Eventually, the republics along the right-of-way may get behind this project—as they have gotten behind the Pan-American highway—and erect markers, hotels and adequate airports for accommodating flying tourists.

The "Ninety-Nines"

In the United States, members of the "Ninety-Nines," an organization of women pilots, would undoubtedly relieve men for frontline duty by taking over jobs of ferrying airplanes, piloting hospital aircraft and commercial transports.

To qualify, a woman pilot must hold a commercial certificate, acquired after 200 hours of solo flying; also an instrument rating, granted after 20 hours of training with flight indicating devices, and on top of this she must pass a physical test and written examination.

Such stiff requirements will not deter American women from applying; the number of near-perfect physical and mental specimens is legion.

The real "bottleneck" to hemisphere defense so far as civilian pilots are concerned, is the shortage of airports both in the United States and in the republics south. Military and commercial flying have expanded so rapidly that inadequate facilities are available for air-minded civilians.

To Relieve Congestion

Congress has already taken steps to relieve congestion by appropriating $40,000,000 for 200 new landing fields in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii. More than half are strategically located near the open sea; 110 locations are now scheduled airline stops; 133 will have night lighting installations.

The $40,000,000 fund is incident to the government's program of increasing the number of United States airports from the existing 2,300 to 4,000 by 1946, at an estimated total outlay of $560,000,000. President Roosevelt has requested from Congress an appropriation of $33,500,000 for new airport construction to begin July 1, 1941. If Congress approves, this sum will supplement the $40,000,000 already appropriated.

At 100-125 miles per hour, the private plane owner has the means of seeing a great deal at his own convenience.

In connection with civilians and hemisphere defense, we must also count the considerable number of Americans engaged in commercial aviation.

United States air line companies operate about 350 transports, capable of transporting 4,000 armed men across the United States within 24 hours. In an emergency, most of these planes could be impressed for defense.

More valuable than the transports themselves, the ground crews and military reserve pilots employed in commercial aviation form one of the mainstays of hemisphere defense.

Numbers of airline pilots have flown more than million miles, and their record for safety and precision is unsurpassed. American civilian pilots have pioneered scheduled oceanic and hemispheric flying.

Gliders, Too

Apropos to a discussion of hemisphere defense is a bit of legislation now pending in Congress. It relates to the establishment of a "Civilian Glider Pilot Training Division" in the Civil Aeronautics Authority. This anticipates the use of gliders for training civilian pilots.

Youth also enters the picture of hemisphere defense. One organization, the Academy of Model Aeronautics, numbers more than one-quarter of a million air-minded young men and women, many of whom look forward to careers in aviation.

ANTI-FASCIST ITALIAN EDITOR SHOT TO DEATH

John F. Arena, 50, Believed Slain As Result Of His Editorials

ASSASSIN FLEES IN CAR
Attacks Against Persons Opposing U. S. Blamed By Policemen

CHICAGO, April 16—The Federal Bureau of Investigation was believed ready today to join in the hunt for the slayers of John F. Arena, 45-year-old anti-Fascist editor of the Chicago Italian language newspaper La Tribuna, who was shot to death on a crowded North Side street last night.

It was reported that Arena, an outspoken foe of Fascism who traced his ancestry to Italian nobility, recently had been cooperating with the F. B. I. in an investigation of local un-American activities. In editorials in La Tribuna in recent months, he had been carrying on a vigorous campaign against supposed Italian "fifth columnists."

Chicago police, early in their investigation, stated Arena may have been killed "because of his publishing activities." They learned the editor had received many threats against his life for his anti-Fascist and anti-fifth column writings. Most of the threats were made by anonymous telephone callers, detectives said.

Arena became an American citizen last year and at that time stated he was renouncing his Italian title, under which he was known as the Marchese D'Arena.

The shooting occurred shortly after 11 o'clock last night a few moments after Arena had emerged from a motion picture theatre with Miss Eleanor Herrmeyer, 17. According to Miss Herrmeyer, she and Arena had just seated themselves in the editor's car when a man ran up to them and shouted: "Look out, you've got a flat."

Shots Miss Others

Arena and Miss Herrmeyer stepped from the machine, and as Arena walked behind the car to examine his tires, the stranger opened fire with a revolver. The editor fell, mortally wounded, as the killer fled in an automobile driven by a second man. Several persons in the vicinity reported they had narrowly escaped being shot.

Arena's wife, Dorothy, 32, the mother of a 7-year-old son, became hysterical when police informed her of the tragedy. She told officers her husband had received many threats against his life recently from unidentified telephone callers. The last threat was received only a few hours before Arena was killed, she said.

Mrs. Arena, police stated, charged that "everybody" was against her husband because of his known anti-Fascist beliefs, which he stressed in editorials in La Tribuna. Detectives said the widow named a number of prominent Chicagoans of Italian birth or ancestry as "enemies" of her husband. These persons will be questioned, police said.

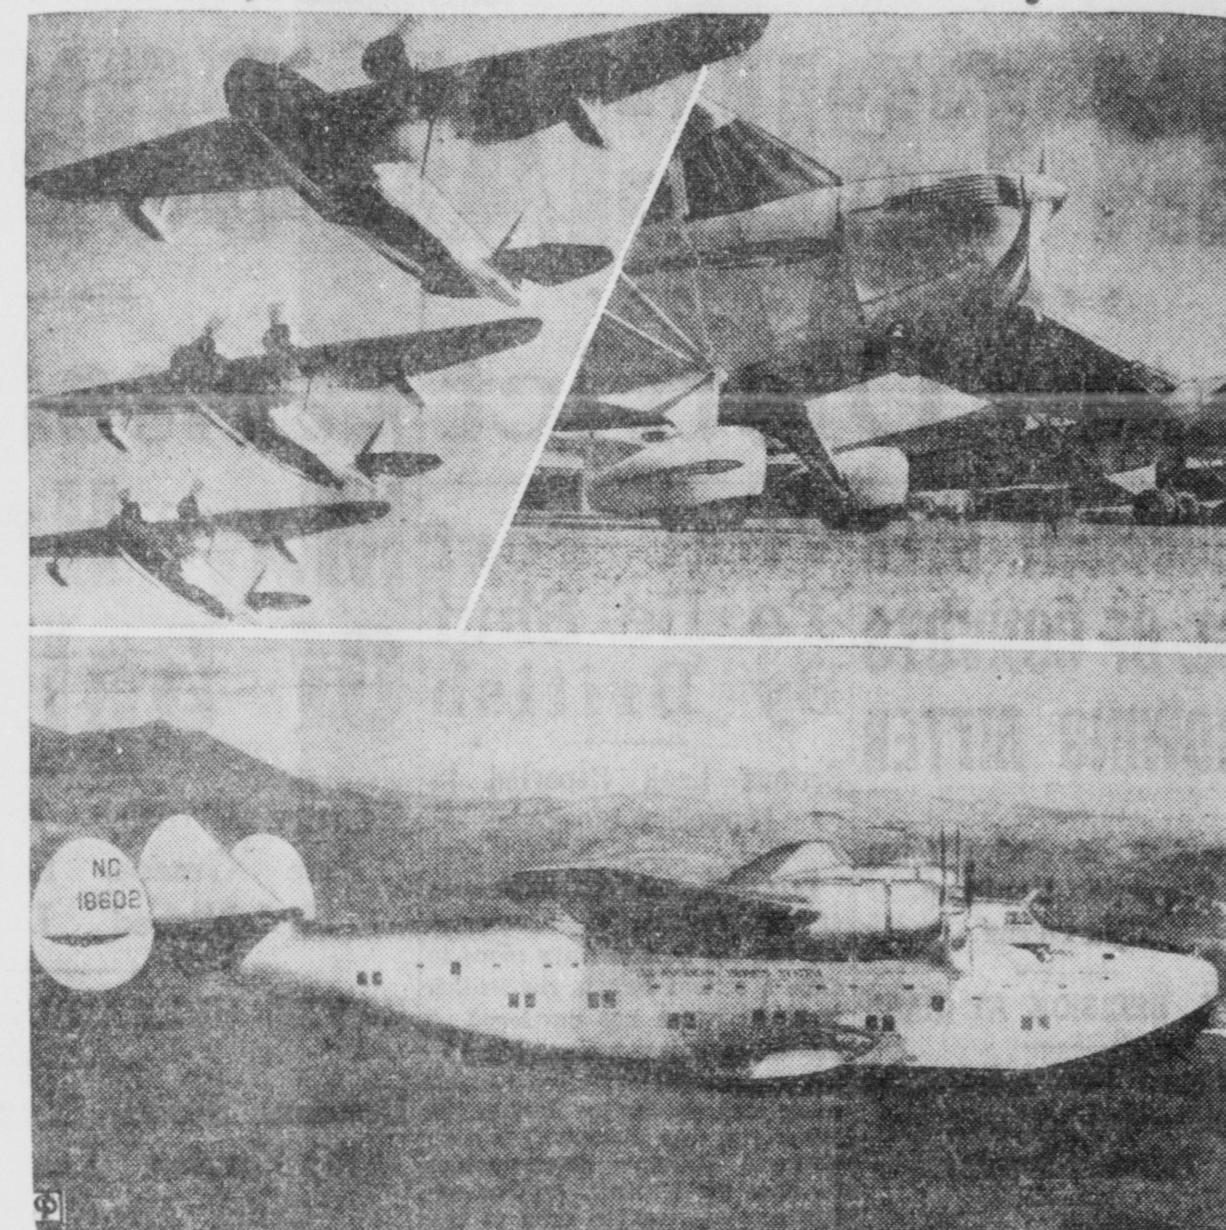

Authorities also stated they were investigating a report that Arena had received a "warning" from the Italian consul's office in New York to desist from publishing anti-Fascist editorials.

In a signed editorial carried in the paper February 21, 1941, Arena wrote:

CHIEF OF STATE DRAFT REPORTS VARIED RULINGS

Requests For Deferments By Registrant Must Wait For Questionnaire

LOCAL BOARD IMPORTANT

Proper Classification Up To Individual, Declares Colonel Goble

Requests for deferment of a Selective Service registrant from military training cannot be considered until his local board has sent a questionnaire to him, Lieut. Col. C. W. Goble, state director of selective service, declared Wednesday.

He emphasizes the fact that a registrant can be deferred only by his local board and that no other group or persons in the Selective Service System has jurisdiction until the local board has classified the registrant. Neither should employers and dependents of prospective trainees submit pleas for deferment in advance of the time when the registrants come up for classification by their local boards, according to Col. Goble.

Under Selective Service Regulations, local boards must classify registrants according to their order numbers, the state director points out. When the time comes for the classification of a registrant, he, his employer, and his dependents will be given every opportunity to substantiate deferment claims. Any information submitted before a registrant receives his questionnaire from his local board probably would become obsolete and valueless.

Comments Listed

Commenting on classification determination, as arrived at by local Selective Service boards, Col. Goble said:

"Only evidence that is in registrant's file can be sent to the Appeal Board. If there is new evidence, this must first be presented to the local board, and they must consider it before it can be passed on to the appeal board. The local board will receive and consider new and bona fide evidence at any time. If a registrant presents evidence, that he forgot or failed to place in his questionnaire, the local board will give it consideration."

"It is essential for every registrant to have all the evidence in his questionnaire before the time of classification is made by his local board."

COLLEGE GIVEN $30,000

SPRINGFIELD, April 16—Wittenberg College which is staging a drive for $1,200,000 today announced a $30,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. Elgar Weaver, Brookville, O. Weaver is retired lumberman. In 1930 he gave the college $50,000 for an astronomical observatory.

"Further, many boards in Ohio have questionnaires in the files in which the information given has been written-in with lead pencil. All registrants who used a lead pencil when they filled out their questionnaire should go at once to their local board, get another questionnaire, and write, in ink, all of the essential information necessary. This procedure makes another oath necessary, and it is most desirable from the standpoint of the registrant, because he should realize his questionnaire establishes and constitutes a permanent case history of himself with the federal government. Ink has permanency—it remains legible for a long period of time."

Local Board Vital

The local board has initial control over a registrant. No person in the Selective Service System, in state or national headquarters, can do anything for a registrant until after he has had his initial classification by the local board. The local Selective Service board is the only group that can decide the initial classification of a registrant. After they have made the classification they will send to the registrant "Notice of Classification".

"After the classification notice has been received the registrant has the following procedural rights, as provided by Selective Service Regulations:

"First: He may request a hearing in writing, before the local board, within five days from the time of his receiving classification. If the local board continues his classification he has the right of appeal to his District Board of Appeals, or:—

"Second: The registrant may go to the local board and make an appeal direct to the District Appeal Board. All he needs do, to make an appeal, is to sign his name on the back of the questionnaire and make a statement of the class in which he thinks he should be placed.

"If the examining physician or the local board is not satisfied as to the registrant's physical condition for classification, they may refer him to a member or members of the Medical Advisory Board for further examination.

"The Government appeal agent for each county board will be pleased to cooperate with registrants and answer questions regarding military training under the Selective Service Act and Regulations.

"Only after a registrant has followed through the above, which are his procedural rights under the regulations, can state or national Selective Service officials assist him. It is further pointed out that the registrant is never placed in class 1-A until he has had his physical examination. He must be in class 1-A before he can appeal to a lower classification.

Evidence Discussed

"Only evidence that is in registrant's file can be sent to the Appeal Board. If there is new evidence, this must first be presented to the local board, and they must consider it before it can be passed on to the appeal board. The local board will receive and consider new and bona fide evidence at any time. If a registrant presents evidence, that he forgot or failed to place in his questionnaire, the local board will give it consideration."

"It is essential for every registrant to have all the evidence in his questionnaire before the time of classification is made by his local board."

COLLEGE GIVEN $30,000

SPRINGFIELD, April 16—Wittenberg College which is staging a drive for $1,200,000 today announced a $30,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. Elgar Weaver, Brookville, O. Weaver is retired lumberman. In 1930 he gave the college $50,000 for an astronomical observatory.

"Further, many boards in Ohio have questionnaires in the files in which the information given has been written-in with lead pencil. All registrants who used a lead pencil when they filled out their questionnaire should go at once to their local board, get another questionnaire, and write, in ink, all of the essential information necessary. This procedure makes another oath necessary, and it is most desirable from the standpoint of the registrant, because he should realize his questionnaire establishes and constitutes a permanent case history of himself with the federal government. Ink has permanency—it remains legible for a long period of time."

"Many registrants may have been improperly classified because they did not give the local board all of the information concerning their status regarding dependents or essential employment. Information, in a registrant's questionnaire, may be of real value to him in his future life when he might, possibly, try to establish facts in connection with his civilian life."

Pickaway County Outdoors

One of the topics to be discussed at the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportmen's meeting Thursday night will be whether or not a banquet should be sponsored by the organization again next year. Most banquet officials agreed that this year's event, held March 19, in Memorial Hall, was a success, but the difficulty of obtaining good speakers and of serving an adequate dinner for a nominal fee is one which has caused sportsmen to consider discontinuing the event next year.

In place of a banquet, some are considering a field day for Pickaway County farmers and sportsmen. The field day, which might feature the running of dogs, could be put on, it is believed, cheaper than a banquet, and at the same time provide more entertainment for members of the organization. The idea of a sportsmen's field day has been used successfully in neighboring counties, and at a reasonable cost. No action has been taken on such a program, but it is one of the things local farmers and sportsmen are thinking about.

Fifty percent of these banded pheasants were killed the first day of the hunting season and 56.2 percent were killed the first two days of the hunting season.

The season on trout opened in Ohio on April 15 and continues until September 15. The main trout streams in Ohio are the Mad River and its tributaries. Old timers give three primary rules for stream trout fishing:

1. Keep out of sight of the trout.
2. Keep a little farther out of sight of the trout.
3. Keep still farther out of sight of the trout.

Women's organizations throughout Ohio are becoming increasingly conservation minded as is indicated by the number of conservation programs held by garden and nature clubs and other organizations.

Mrs. Lester A. Lusher, state chairman of conservation of the Ohio Daughters of the American Revolution, announces that the state D. A. R. spent $22,986 during 1940 for conservation.

Arrangements already have been made to plant 29 acres in various parts of Pickaway County for game and wildlife food. If there are others who wish to plant a wildlife food patch get in touch with C. A federal fish hatchery near Hebron, Ohio, is open for public inspection this week as a part of the National Wildlife Restoration observances being celebrated throughout the country. The hatchery is on Route 40, two and one-half miles southwest of Hebron.

Other federal hatchery in Ohio is located at Seneca Falls. Distribution of eggs, fry and fingerlings of nine species in the last year numbered 1,586,960.

Hayden Olds of the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources has prepared a report of the pheasant band returns. A total of 1,803 bands were returned following last season's hunting, 24,455 cock birds were banded in the state. The percentage of returns was 7.9. From the better pheasant territory including Pickaway County the percentage of returns was 11.1. In Pickaway County 445 cock birds were banded and the number of bands returned was 55 for a percentage of 12.4.

In the better pheasant habitat of the state 82.6 percent of the pheasants moved two or less miles. In the territory not so well adapted as pheasant habitat there was a tendency of the birds to move further, evidently in search of food or better cover. One bird released in Perry Township in 1939 was shot south of Xenia 40 miles from the point of release.

Of the 1,803 bands returned 1,751 were taken by hunters. The remainder met death in various ways. Cats were responsible for 5, dogs 6, the plow 1, drowning 1, train 4, automobiles 19, hawks 2, foxes 3, violators 1, unknown 10.

Forty percent of these banded pheasants were killed the first day of the hunting season and 56.2 percent were killed the first two days of the hunting season.

MUSICAL PROGRESS

JOHN ERSKINE, musical authority, says grand opera is becoming almost as American as baseball. He describes it as gaining a great following of people who "know the game and don't need cheer leaders to tell them when to applaud."

Observant people have noticed something of the kind. It is incredible how much progress has been made in knowledge and appreciation of good music, and in facilities for hearing it, during the last 20 years.

Much of the credit for this gain in culture and enjoyment must go to radio, which has made fine music accessible for the first time to many million people. Bad music, to be sure, is even more accessible; but the good music tends to overcome the bad, and the level of taste steadily rises.

The gain in popularity of grand opera, emphasized by Mr. Erskine, is the most interesting phase of this progress. Many Americans still profess a sort of contempt for opera in general, based possibly on the rather childish and stereotyped nature of most of the plots. But plots are merely the framework on which are hung gorgeous and infinitely varied music, of which people once introduced into this fairy land of melody never seem to weary.

PAROLE THAT WORKS

THE New York State Division of Parole is justly proud of the fact that 84 percent of prisoners paroled are employed and at work. Not all, of course, have just the kind of work for which they are best fitted by character and training, but they are at least out of idleness and crime and on their way to self-support and honesty.

More employers are willing to hire the paroled man today, as a result of steady educational effort toward that end. And most of the men granted employment are making good.

What this means to all the citizens of New York State can only be suggested. In 1940, for example, the employed parolees supported more than 10,000 dependents who might otherwise have been objects of public charity. More than that, the parolees were saved from temptation to return to criminal careers which would have cost society yet more.

The fact that so many of the men are satisfactorily employed and taking care of dependents seems to be proof that the board is making few mistakes in granting paroles.

PERKINS' RESIGNATION

WASHINGTON—There is only one reason why Secretary Frances Perkins continues in the Cabinet as head of the Department of Labor. That reason is Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Though it's an inner circle secret, Miss Perkins' resignation has been on his desk for more than a month. Why he hasn't done anything about it in the face of widespread demands for a stronger Labor Secretary, including some from his closest advisers, is known only to him.

Intimates attribute it to the President's inability to give the gate to old friends, no matter how much they embarrass him.

For a long time Miss Perkins seemed unaware of her unpopularity. But in recent months it apparently dawned on her. To give the President freedom of action to place her (a degree of sincerity in marked contrast to certain of her former colleagues), she tendered her resignation.

His failure to name a successor cannot be attributed to lack of material. Three top-notch New Dealers of proven ability are available—Solicitor General Francis Biddle, who was chairman of the original National Labor Board; William H. Davis, vice chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board, who has had extensive experience in the labor field; and Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

Meanwhile, the President has quietly tightened up Miss Perkins' handling of defense labor disputes. She is under strict orders to certify immediately to the Mediation Board all cases recommended by OPM chiefs. Purpose of this is to end her Conciliation Service's domination of her decisions on whether to certify a controversy or not.

POET-POLITICIAN

Librarian of Congress Archibald MacLeish is one of the great poets of the country, but he also is no slouch as a politician.

The House committee investigating migrant labor has been particularly interested in the problem of overcrowding in defense industry towns. Recently the committee itself ran up against the same problem. It needed more office space.

Chairman John M. Tolan of California, hearing there were some vacant study rooms in the new annex of the Library of Congress, asked MacLeish if the committee might use them.

"Why, Congressman," beamed MacLeish, "I've been studying your subject for years. In fact, I wrote a poem about it. Have you read it? Wait, I'll get a copy."

He sent for a volume of his famous poem, "Land of the Free", and read some of its stirring passages to Tolan, who enjoyed the rare recitation immensely. Afterwards, MacLeish presented the volume with a charming autograph to his thrilled visitor, then concluded by giving him more space than he had requested.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

UNCLE SAM has started now to register brains, subject to draft in connection with his aid-the-democracies and home-defense program.

The Selective Service System, officially so-called, isn't in charge of the job, but it's a selective service plan all the same. President Leonard Carmichael of Tufts college is in charge of the task, which he's superintending from offices in the Civil Service Commission's headquarters in Washington.

The idea is that physical fighters or prospective fighters need scientists to dope out gadgets and methods to enable 'em to do their fighting at a maximum of efficiency.

Dr. Carmichael is registering the scientists, and fitting 'em exactly into the brackets that they belong in. When an army or a navy or an aviation or a federal production agency encounters a problem which a super-expert is required to solve, it applies to Dr. Carmichael and he promptly designates precisely the right kind of a scientist to fill the bill. Thereupon said scientist automatically becomes a selectee.

I don't mean to say that scientists literally are conscripted—that they're penalized if they balk. They don't balk, though. They're willing conscripts. They're darned flattered to be picked as corking wise men.

For instance, Dr. Einstein is on the list. He was born in Germany, it's true, but he's an exile from there, and perfectly ready to collaborate to Nazi disadvantage. Any time Herr Hitler can be given a fatal shot of relativity, Prof. Einstein's only too glad to furnish the democracies' armed forces with the necessary ammunition.

500,000 SCIENTISTS

An ordinary Selective Service selectee has to be of military age and healthy, too. A scientific selectee can be as sick as a horse or 100 years old. It doesn't matter if he's got the scientific qualifications. Dr. Carmichael hasn't yet compiled his full roster of 'em, but he reckons that it'll total around half a million before he gets through.

Besides supplies for actual combat, it's up to science to hit on substitutes for a lot of raw materials that there's a shortage of.

Illustratively, it's been widely advertised that aluminum isn't adequately available. Aviation, in particular, wants all there is of it in creation and more, too. It not only is gobbling up all the raw stuff it can get; it's trying to confiscate housewives' aluminum pots and pans. So the demand is for science to produce some sort of "ersatz" aluminum, both to supplement aviation's shortage and to provide civil pots and pans.

Various other metals are mentioned that there's an inadequacy of. We never before thought of 'em like zinc, nickel and tin as scarce, but this is an abnormal era. There's an outcry for ersatzes also. Inventing it is another stunt for our scientific selectees.

And rubber!

Why there should be such a yell over raw rubber I can't see.

The story is that all our American rubber has to come from the ignore.

Dutch East Indies and Malaya and if Japan grabs those two areas, the Mikado will shut off our imports of it and that we'll have to depend on ersatz for tires, hot water bags, et cetera.

Well, what's the matter with rubber from the Belgian Congo? It used to be shipped out from there ad lib. Heaven knows there was room enough about it back in the days of the late King Leopold of Belgium. He was accused of permitting the African collectors of the juice to be scandalously mistreated by the Belgians but there wasn't any question that the country simply effervesced rubber.

It's been widely advertised that aluminum isn't adequately available. Aviation, in particular, wants all there is of it in creation and more, too. It not only is gobbling up all the raw stuff it can get; it's trying to confiscate housewives' aluminum pots and pans. So the demand is for science to produce some sort of "ersatz" aluminum, both to supplement aviation's shortage and to provide civil pots and pans.

Miss Mary and Miss Ruth Holman of Orange, N. J., were guests of Mrs. William Foresman and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap of Circleville.

Well, what's the matter with rubber from the Amazon. Henry Ford started to exploit it in the early 1920's. It's a mean jungle—unpleasant for Yankee bosses of the job to live in, which I suppose is why Henry abandoned it. Nevertheless, the rubber's there.

Only the other day I saw a dispatch saying that the German freighter Norderney, with 500 tons of rubber on board, was planning a dash for home from the Amazon mouth's harbor of Belem (also known as Para). That the Norderney could make Germany from Brazil, through the British blockade, seemed no cinch. Yet she had that rubber under hatches.

Well, why, then all this talk about our dependency for rubber upon the Dutch East Indies and Malaya alone? Or else ersatz.

That's one of the ersatzes that I suppose our scientists could invent.

About Your Heart

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

• A woman came weeping to me the other day because she had been told her son had a heart murmur. I don't know how many people I have had to calm down because some doctor or life insurance examiner had told them they had a large heart or enlargement of the heart. Then there is the host of people who lead ten or twenty years of tragic life because they hear they have valvular disease of the heart.

These things really mean very little. A valvular defect is merely a mechanical derangement in a mechanical organ. A murmur is the outward and visible sign of it. Enlargement of the heart is the compensation. Nature makes to overcome the mechanical derangement.

The important thing to know about the heart is whether it is doing its work. It is a muscular organ and a muscle is intended and designed by Nature to do work. It is, true enough, the hardest worked muscle in the body. But if it does its work, which is to keep the blood circulating, other things about it are of minor significance.

Valvular Defect

Of course a valvular defect is real and persistent (many of the ones that are so diagnosed are neither real nor persistent) adds to the work of the heart, puts an extra strain on the heart muscle and tends to wear it out sooner than normal.

But not necessarily much sooner! The weeping mother who had discovered her boy had a murmur can take heart from a news clipping of one of my colleagues brought me the other day. It was from an obituary column in a medical journal (therefore somewhat more reliable on technical points than the ordinary) and recorded the death of a doctor from valvular (mitral) disease. He died at the age of 92. That's a long time to carry so dangerous a thing as a murmur.

A doctor in Toronto whose wards I was visiting asked me how many children I thought a woman with mitral valvular disease could be allowed to have safely without damaging her heart muscle. I allowed four. He said "Step this way"—and took me into a room where a patient of his with mitral defect had just had her thirteenth child.

Enlarged Heart

Saying that a person has an enlarged heart is just saying that the body reactions are normal. We all have enlarged hearts sooner or later. When a fellow's blood pressure rises as time goes on (and it does in three out of every five people) if his heart doesn't enlarge he just isn't. It's the enlargement of the heart that keeps him alive.

It's like saying to an engineer on a locomotive that is carrying a train up a mountain—"Why you have enlargement of your locomotive?" Of course he has if the locomotive is going to get the train up the hill. But when the locomotive large or small is no longer able to move the cars up the slope, then the engineer is really in trouble. Only when your heart, large or small, murmurous or not, no longer pumps the blood through the system need you begin to get perturbed about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Daily Reader: "Will eating several tablespoons of coffee grounds each day cause harmful effects?"

Answer—This seems to me a very poor way to take coffee, but not necessarily harmful, although you get a good deal more coffee than that way you would in several cups of coffee.

D. W.: "What is the cause and cure for small white, seed warts in a young girl?"

Answer—These are probably due to infections. They are best treated either by the application of the end of a cork moistened with formaldehyde, several times a day, or by X-ray.

Hints on Etiquette

If you are driving an automobile and a pedestrian is crossing the street with the light or right of way, give the pedestrian a chance to get across the street without blowing your horn sharply and going ahead, if you want to turn the corner.

Today's Horoscope

Provided today's birthday children do not commit any rash act, even in the face of great provocation, the next year will be happy and successful for them. Born on this date the child will be energetic, enterprising and fortunate, but when roused will exhibit a somewhat violent temper, which he or she must be taught to control very early in life.

About Your Heart

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

• A woman came weeping to me the other day because she had been told her son had a heart murmur. I don't know how many people I have had to calm down because some doctor or life insurance ex-

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

aminer had told them they had a large heart or enlargement of the heart. Then there is the host of people who lead ten or twenty years of tragic life because they hear they have valvular disease of the heart.

These things really mean very little. A valvular defect is merely a mechanical derangement in a mechanical organ. A murmur is the outward and visible sign of it. Enlargement of the heart is the compensation. Nature makes to overcome the mechanical derangement.

The important thing to know about the heart is whether it is doing its work. It is a muscular organ and a muscle is intended and designed by Nature to do work. If it does its work, which is to keep the blood circulating, other things about it are of minor significance.

Valvular Defect

Of course a valvular defect if real and persistent (many of the ones that are so diagnosed are neither real nor persistent) adds to the work of the heart, puts an extra strain on the heart muscle and tends to wear it out sooner than normal.

But not necessarily much sooner! The weeping mother who had discovered her boy had a murmur can take heart from a news clipping one of my colleagues brought me the other day. It was from an obituary column in a medical journal (therefore somewhat more reliable on technical points than the ordinary) and recorded the death of a doctor from valvular (mitral) disease. He died at the age of 92. That's a long time to carry so dangerous a thing as a murmur.

A doctor in Toronto whose words I was visiting asked me how many children I thought a woman with mitral valvular disease could be allowed to have safely without dangerous complications.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Daily Reader: "Will eating several tablespoons of coffee grounds each day cause harmful effects?"

Answer—This seems to me a very poor way to take coffee, but not necessarily harmful, although you get a good deal more coffee that way than you would in several cups of coffee.

D. W.: "What is the cause and cure for small white, seed warts in a young girl?"

Answer—These are probably due to infections. They are best treated either by the application of the end of a cork moistened with formaldehyde, several times a day, or by X-ray.

Editor's Note: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening, 121½ W. Main Street, Circleville, Ohio.

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet"; "Indigestion and Nervousness"; "How to Get a Gallbladder"; "Infant Feeding"; "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes"; "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin".

MORE THAN 200 BELIEVED DEAD IN COLIMA AREA

portedly causing forest fires which menaced the state capital and surrounding communities.

This volcano is one of the highest peaks on Mexico's Pacific Coast.

The estimate that at least 200 persons had perished at Colima was furnished by authorities at Manzanillo.

But that the toll may prove even higher was indicated in a message to President Avila Camacho from Gov. Torres Ortiz, who said it would be impossible to estimate accurately the dead and injured until soldiers searched all wrecked buildings.

There also were many victims in outlying towns and villages in the state of Colima, and with Zobelco Volcano in eruption local authorities predicted a mounting total of dead and injured.

Many other locations were shaken by the quake. Numerous flimsy houses at Oaxaca City crashed to the ground and 20 houses were wrecked at Uruapan in the state of Michoacan.

Vera Cruz Shaken

The cities of Maltata and Vera Cruz were badly shaken and the west coast section of Manzanillo was rocked by violent tremors which knocked down scores of houses and reportedly killed a number of persons.

The city of Puebla also reported tremors of unusual intensity.

The town of Coacolman in Michoacan was partially destroyed and scores of houses also were wrecked at Copan in the same state.

At Colima, by far the worst sufferer, 1,000 soldiers were placed on duty and martial law was declared. Ten of the soldiers were killed when their barracks collapsed.

President Camacho planned to leave Mexico City for Colima this morning—probably in an army bomber. He will assume direction of relief work and distribution of army food supplies to the suffering population.

Gov. Ortiz sent first news of the Colima disaster to President Camacho in a telegram which said:

"The city is in ruins. Only a few houses are standing. The hydroelectric dam has broken and the city is in darkness."

The governor immediately requested that sanitary brigades be rushed to the city and also asked for Red Cross aid.

President Avila Camacho dispatched an emergency brigade to Colima by train—including 10 doctors and 25 nurses—and also sent food and medicine aboard a squadron of military planes.

Scores of fires broke out in Colima, threatening areas still left standing, according to official reports. The Manzanillo radio station reported available fire apparatus was totally inadequate to cope with the flames.

Elli Long, of Delaware, O., a newcomer to New England's race tracks stole the march on other early bird turfmen by unloading eight horses at Narragansett 14 days before the opening.

Today's Garden-Graph

Phlox usually are the most important group of flowers of the perennial garden, blooming from early July to late September.

PINCH OUT TOPS AS SHOWN

Continual Bloom From Phlox

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, to have a succession of blooms from perennial phlox, pinch off the shoots from part of the plant when the shoots are several inches high.

It will depend, of course, on the size of the plant as to just how many shoots should be pinched back. A few shoots should be removed from small clumps and many from larger clumps.

Old flower clusters of phlox should always be cut off to prevent seeding and to encourage the development of more flower clusters. Seedlings usually revert to the ancestral form and color, which is an unattractive lavender purple hue.

ST. PAUL, April 16—The Twin Cities' strongest teams feature tonight's program at the American Bowling Congress, with the Hamms of St. Paul and the Minneapolis Stars Jamals among the fives slated for action.

The Hamms in 1934 hung up a record of 3,713 and for four consecutive weeks did not roll less than 3,500 in league competition. Ace of the team is Bill Metcalfe, veteran of 29 A. B. C.'s.

Only one change was registered yesterday among the big 10 leaders. This came when Henry Zeutius of Green Bay, Wis., hit 1,950 for sixth place in the all-series on series of 605, 656, and 689.

At the same time it was learned in Washington that the Suez Canal port of Ismailia, to which President Roosevelt recently indicated American ships might carry war supplies, has been so heavily mined by the Germans that the United States vessels will be unable to use it.

The military situation in Yugoslavia is "bad," informed London quarters frankly conceded today.

Control List

They declared reports from the Balkan front indicated that all unified control of the split and scattered Yugoslavian armies now has ceased.

In the face of this setback, British military quarters said, virtually complete collapse of Yugoslavian resistance against attacking German and Italian forces is possible before nightfall.

Nevertheless, authoritative circles said, the Yugoslavian forces are expected to continue guerrilla warfare from their mountain strongholds, particularly against German lines of communication.

According to these circles the British now face battles on two fronts—Greece and North Africa—while trouble in oil-rich Iraq, where a pro-Nazi regime has been established, has immobilized Britain's Palestine army.

London quarters said that under the circumstances they anticipate a probable German two-pronged thrust, with one Nazi spearhead driving against the Suez Canal from Sollum, Egypt, and the other aiming at the Nile from Kufra.

Cards Blast Champions In Inaugural; Athletics Bump Yankees

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 16—A pre-season prediction by President Ford Frick of the National League that baseball attendance record would be shattered this year seemed well on the way to fulfillment today.

Midst customary opening day fanfare, seven Major League games yesterday drew nearly 200,000 cash customers, who forgot the cares of a war-torn, grief-filled world or the moment to watch the inauguration of another season of the national pastime.

The day's largest crowd was clustered in the Cleveland ball park for the perennial unveiling of Bob Feller, this time against the Chicago White Sox. To the utter dismay of 46,064 persons Feller was routed.

The Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics attracted 40,128 at New York while in the National League the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals drew 34,940 at Cincinnati, where the Reds' 1940 championship flag was raised and the players were presented with rings emblematic of their World Series conquest. Commissioner Landis assisted in the festivities. The Reds then proceeded to lose the ball game.

Inaugural games usually are well pitched and the record books are filled with one-hit performances turned in on opening days. Bobby Feller pitched a no-hitter against the White Sox on opening day last year.

Hitters in Charge

But yesterday the batters took charge and the only two notable performances were turned in by Philadelphia Pitchers—Chubby Dean of the Athletics and old Cy Blanton of the Phillies.

Dean held the Yanks to five hits to give the Mackmen a 3-1 decision over Red Ruffing, and Blanton yielded only four to give the Phils a 6-5 margin over the Bees.

Feller was not the pitcher yesterday he was a year ago. He hit Bill Knickerbocker in the ribs with pitched ball in the first inning and then hit his rival, Bill Dietrich, in the head with another pitch in the second. However, Dietrich was still there at the finish while Feller was on his way after six heats with a 4-3 verdict returned against him.

Rain kept the Browns and Tigers idle in St. Louis but there was nothing idle about the Senators and Red Sox who put on a wild and wooly struggle in Boston. The Red Sox staged a three-run rally in the ninth to win, 7-6, and Danny MacFayden obligingly helped the Red Sox by forcing in the winning run.

Five Hit at Cincinnati

There was even more slugging in the National League where the boys really went for distance. The Cardinals and Reds, for instance, showed the fans five homers as Lou Warneke staggered through to a 7-3 victory over Paul Derringer. Koy, Slaughter and Mize hit for the circuit for the Cards and Frank McCormick lashed out a pair of homers for the Reds.

The Giants spoiled thousands of Brooklyn appetites when they staged a four-run rally in the eighth against Whit Wyatt to win, 6 to 4. Claude Pasreau of the Cubs was hit hard in spots and four errors by the Cubs' new shortstop, Lou Stringer, didn't help him any, but he managed to ride out the storm and beat the Pirates, 7 to 4.

Forest Fire Dangers Increase As Dry Weather Prevails In State

Crews Of Rangers And CCC Youths Battle Flames In Many Areas

VILLAGES ARE MENACED Radcliff, Enterprise And Other Towns Scenes Of Blazes

Persons living in wooded sections of Pickaway and other Ohio counties were given warning Wednesday against starting fires that might spread, causing great losses of property.

Forest fires in southern and southeastern Ohio have created a "very serious situation that will continue until we get rain," A. V. Bastian, assistant state forester, stationed at Chillicothe, declared Wednesday after more reports of fires were received by his office.

Five crews of state fire control workers, CCC enrollees and WPA workers are fighting fires in half a dozen areas. One fire near Radcliff, Vinton County, burned over 300 acres Monday and Tuesday. Another broke out near Enterprise in Hocking County and burned over 100 acres in a few hours. A wind spread the Enterprise flames. Fire fighting crews from Rock House, Ash Cave and Sugar Grove were battling the blaze, finally stopping it.

Bastian reported that other forest blazes were reported near Jackson and Limerick, Jackson County, and in the Shawnee State Forest in western Scioto County.

Forecasts of showers and a drop of 10 to 15 degrees in temperature gave fire fighters hope that the "epidemic" of blazes might be ended. The mercury has been running about 20 degrees above normal in Ohio, weather experts say. The showers may come late Wednesday or Thursday.

The forestry official said Wednesday that fires are being caused largely by persons burning brush and fields without a permit from his department.

"Too much stress cannot be placed on the necessity for care and caution in guarding against grass and forest fires," the official said. "In addition to homes being threatened, the fires destroy fine stands of woodland and valuable pasture lands."

FIVE PERSONS INJURED AS TROLLEY BUS, AUTO CRASH

COLUMBUS, April 16—Five persons, including a pedestrian, were suffering injuries today as a result of the collision during the rush hour last night of a trolley bus and an automobile.

Mrs. Nanny Ferguson, 69, had alighted from the bus just before the collision. The automobile struck her after hitting the bus. Also injured were the driver of the car, Mrs. Cecile E. Nutter, 45, of Erie, Pa.; her daughter, Genevieve, 28, and her grandson, James Covey, 9, also of Erie. Miss Jane Fallon, 21, suffered body bruises when she was thrown against the seat in front of her on the trolley bus.

DEATH OF MAN, 35, MAKES TOLL OF COLLISION SIX

COLUMBUS, April 16—Death of Bufford L. Patrick, 35, in a Columbus hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a head-on collision Sunday today brought to six the death toll of the accident.

Patrick was riding with his brother, Wellington, when their automobile collided head-on with one driven by Grover Jacobs. All three occupants of each car died as the result.

Capital punishment as a lawful procedure has existed since the history of mankind. It is laid down in the Mosaic Law in the books of Leviticus and Deuteronomy.

Higher Prices For Hogs, Cattle Guaranteed By Government Plan

MUCH CORN IMPORTED

Feed Supply In Pickaway Area Estimated To Be Third Under Normal

Pickaway County farmers are looking to livestock for their 1941 profits, reports from farmers, agricultural authorities and agricultural businesses indicated Wednesday.

With high prices on hogs and cattle guaranteed by the government's price-peaking program, farmers are feeding more and selling less of the grain raised on their farms.

Officials of the Pickaway Grain Company reported Wednesday that the company's records for the first three months of 1941 have shown the largest volume of grinding and mixing business on record. Company's receipts for the first quarter of the year have run over $1,600, according to Lawrence S. Warner, manager of the company. High prices on hogs and livestock have caused local farmers to feed most of their grain, grinding and mixing it with supplements to assure them of least possible waste.

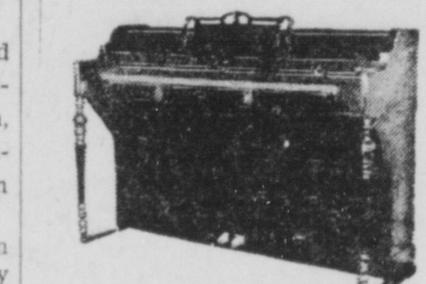

Foreign Corn Bought

On the other hand very little corn or small grain is coming into the company, a condition which has been reported similarly at other Pickaway County elevators. County AAA officials report that farmers are buying corn from outside the county to feed their hogs and cattle and that at no time since the enactment of the AAA has any corn been government stored in Pickaway County. Carloads of corn have been imported by single farmers, officials report, while many elevators have been trucking it from the northern counties of Ohio where an abundant corn crop was harvested last fall. Scarcity of corn in the county is an abnormal condition, officials maintain, brought about by the dry weather last summer. Harry Briggs, manager of the Pickaway Livestock Association, estimates the county's feed supply is a third under normal. Prices on all livestock including hogs, cattle, sheep and calves, will continue high during 1941 and 1942, he believes.

High livestock prices may see many farmers plant over their corn allotments this year, since under the new Farm Program, farmers who wish to plant over their corn allotments, up to their usual acreage, may do so and still participate partly in the AAA program.

Forest Fire Dangers Increase As Dry Weather Prevails In State

Crews Of Rangers And CCC Youths Battle Flames In Many Areas

VILLAGES ARE MENACED

Radcliff, Enterprise And Other Towns Scenes Of Blazes

Persons living in wooded sections of Pickaway and other Ohio counties were given warning Wednesday against starting fires that might spread, causing great losses of property.

Forest fires in southern and southeastern Ohio have created a "very serious situation that will continue until we get rain," A. V. Bastian, assistant state forester, stationed at Chillicothe, declared Wednesday after more reports of fires were received by his office.

Five crews of state fire control workers, CCC enrollees and WPA workers are fighting fires in half a dozen areas. One fire near Radcliff, Vinton County, burned over 300 acres Monday and Tuesday. Another broke out near Enterprise in Hocking County and burned over 100 acres in a few hours. A wind spread the Enterprise flames. Fire fighting crews from Rock House, Ash Cave and Sugar Grove were battling the blaze, finally stopping it.

Bastian reported that other forest blazes were reported near Jackson and Limerick, Jackson County, and in the Shawnee State Forest in western Scioto County.

Forecasts of showers and a drop of 10 to 15 degrees in temperature gave fire fighters hope that the "epidemic" of blazes might be ended. The mercury has been running about 20 degrees above normal in Ohio, weather experts say. The showers may come late Wednesday or Thursday.

The forestry official said Wednesday that fires are being caused largely by persons burning brush and fields without a permit from his office.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED AS TROLLEY BUS, AUTO CRASH

COLUMBUS, April 16—Five persons, including a pedestrian, were suffering injuries today as a result of the collision during the rush hour last night of a trolley bus and an automobile.

Mrs. Nanny Ferguson, 69, had alighted from the bus just before the collision. The automobile struck her after hitting the bus. Also injured were the driver of the car, Mrs. Cecile E. Nutter, 45, of Erie, Pa.; her daughter, Genevieve, 28, and her grandson, James Covey, 9, also of Erie. Miss Jane Fallon, 21, suffered body bruises when she was thrown against the seat in front of her on the trolley bus.

DEATH OF MAN, 35, MAKES TOLL OF COLLISION SIX

COLUMBUS, April 16—Death of Buford L. Patrick, 35, in a Columbus hospital as a result of injuries suffered in a head-on collision Sunday today brought to six the death toll of the accident.

Patrick was riding with his brother, Wellington, when their automobile collided head-on with one driven by Grover Jacobs. All three occupants of each car died as the result.

Capital punishment as a lawful procedure has existed since the history of mankind. It is laid down in the Mosaic Law in the books of Leviticus and Deuteronomy.

COUNTIANS LOOK TO LIVESTOCK FOR '41 PROFIT

Higher Prices For Hogs, Cattle Guaranteed By Government Plan

MUCH CORN IMPORTED

Feed Supply In Pickaway Area Estimated To Be Third Under Normal

Pickaway County farmers are looking to livestock for their 1941 profits, reports from farmers, agricultural authorities and agricultural businesses indicated Wednesday.

With high prices on hogs and cattle guaranteed by the government's price-peggng program, farmers are feeding more and selling less of the grain raised on their farms.

Officials of the Pickaway Grain Company reported Wednesday that the company's records for the first three months of 1941 have shown the largest volume of grinding and mixing business on record. Company's receipts for the first quarter of the year have run over $1,600, according to Lawrence S. Warner, manager of the company. High prices on hogs and livestock have caused local farmers to feed most of their grain, grinding and mixing it with supplements to assure them of least possible waste.

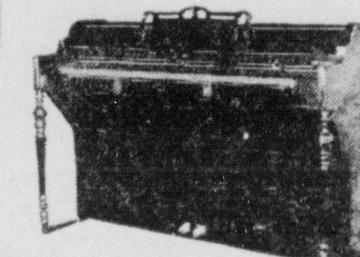

Foreign Corn Bought

On the other hand very little corn or small grain is coming into the company, a condition which has been reported similarly at other Pickaway County elevators. County AAA officials report that farmers are buying corn from outside the county to feed their hogs and cattle and that at no time since the enactment of the AAA has any corn been government stored in Pickaway County. Carloads of corn have been imported by single farmers, officials report, while many elevators have been trucking it from the northern counties of Ohio where an abundant corn crop was harvested last fall.
